ABSTRACT

A 2-month study trip was made in 1982 to 4 major repositories of Indian archival material in France and 2 major repositories in the United Kingdom in order to draw up a detailed inventory of dossiers, other file units, and isolated individual documents related to the history of India that are located in these repositories. The repositories visited included the Depot des Archives d'outre-mer, located in Aix-en-Provence; the Archives Nationales, located in Paris; the Section d'outre-mer d'Archives Nationales; the Archives du Departement des Affaires etrangeres, located in Paris; the India Office Library and Records, located in London; and the British Library, also located in London. This publication describes the study trip and the Indian archival material present in these repositories. It is recommended that microfilm copies of the material be acquired by the National Archives of India and acquisition priorities are outlined. Extensive appendices present a listing of the materials located, inventoried by archive group or similar descriptive unit and by class or series thereunder; a trip itinerary; a sample photocopy request form from the Archives Nationales; and a cost estimate for microfilming materials from the archives of France. 1. INTRODUCTION

1.1 At the request of its Member States, Unesco for the past several years has been studying the problems involved in the transfer of documents from archives in the territory of certain countries to the country of their origin, and of documents located in one country that relate to the history of other countries. A report on this topic was made by the Director-General of Unesco to the twentieth session of its General Conference, held in Paris in 1978.

1.2 This report, in addition to containing a statement of principles and guidelines intended to facilitate negotiations and agreements between and among Member States in respect of matters concerning the transfer of archives, also included a plan of action to assist Member States in obtaining access to and copies of documents located in other countries that relate to their history. Following approval of this report by the General Conference, the Division of the General Information Programme has included in its Programme and Budget funds to assist Member States in the location and identification of such documents and, when possible, for obtaining copies.

1.3 Through its National Commission for Unesco, the Government of India submitted a request to Unesco for financial assistance to survey and obtain copies of documents located in other countries that relate to the history of India. Following an exchange of correspondence, an agreement was reached under which Unesco would provide to the Government of India a two-month study and travel grant to enable a qualified staff member of the National Archives to identify and describe such documents located in several major repositories in India and Great Britain. Specifically, the recipient of the study and travel grant would draw up a detailed inventory by archive group or similar descriptive unit, and by class or series thereunder, and in sufficient detail to identify dossiers, other file units, or the isolated individual documents that relate to the history of India.

1.4 To undertake this project the Government of India submitted to Unesco the name of Mr P.S.M. Moideen of the National Archives of Sri Lanka, and proposed an itinerary for the period October-December 1982. Unesco accepted the proposals of the Government of India, and the mission was undertaken and completed between 17 October and 17 December 1982.

1.5 The reporter wishes to express his deep gratitude and appreciation to Mlle Menier and Mr Maurel, Conservateurs-en-chef at the Section d'outre-mer, National Archives of France, Paris, and at the 'Dépôt des Archives d'outre-mer', Aix-en-Provence respectively, and their staff members for the valuable briefing and for facilitating his work in these repositories; to Mr Le Moël, Conservateur-en-chef of the Archives Nationale, Paris, for his guidance; to Mr B.C. Bloomfield, Mr Martin Moir, Dr Single and Mr John Sims, who provided all facilities and offered useful advice at the India Office Library and Records, London; to Mr Graham Shaw for his briefing on 'Prescribed Publications'; to the Director, National Archives of India and the Government of India for nominating him for this assignment, and to Unesco for readily accepting the nomination and awarding the study grant for undertaking this project.

2. FRANCE

After preliminary discussions with the officials of the National Archives of France, Paris, on 18 October 1982, the reporter commenced the survey of the archival source material that relate to the history of India in the Section outre-mer of the National Archives situated at 27, Rue Oudinot, Paris. Other archival repositories surveyed in Paris included the Archives Nationales, at 60, rue des Francs Bourgeois and the Archives d'Affaires Etrangères (Archives of the Ministry of External Affairs). After 14 days of surveying and listing work at Paris, the reporter left for Aix-en-Provence to continue the remainder of the work at Dépôt des archives d'outre-Mer.

2.1 The French archival source material that relates to the history of India may be broadly divided into two categories. The first category consists of the archives accumulated in France since the establishment of the French East India Company. These include royal edicts, decrees, ordinances, memoirs, copies of the correspondence dispatched to India, etc. The second category of records are those which accumulated in the French settlements in India. These include documents relating to the French East India Company, the correspondence between the governors and the administrators of Mahe, Yanam, Chandernagore and Karikal, and also the records of local administrations.

2.2 The second category of records, relating to Chandernagore, were removed to Pondicherry when the former settlement merged with the Indian Union in 1950. Subsequently in 1954 these records along with those of Pondicherry and other settlements were sent to France.

2.3 Dépôt des Archives d'outre-mer, Aix-en-Provence

Mr Maurel, Conservateur en-chef of the Archives at Aix-en-Provence, explained briefly of the holdings there and very kindly provided me with the published guides, summary inventories, and manuscript lists relevant to the collections of records relating to India. The archives/records removed from Pondicherry in 1954 are housed in the 'Dépôt des Archives d'outre-mer', 1, Chemin du Moulin de Testas, Aix-en-Provence, France. These records are grouped into three main series: (1) 'Le Fonds Ancien' (1690-1855), (2) 'Le Fonds Moderne' (1821-1954), and (3) 'Le Fonds des Papiers Publics' (1699-1835). There are a few gaps in these series and unfortunately the bad state of their preservation, excepting 'le Fonds Moderne', has rendered consultation of a major portion of these documents difficult. In general, these three series contain material exclusively on French settlements in India. The materials surveyed here are briefly described by series and subseries and their inclusive years and bulk are given, wherever possible. The lsit of items of each series recommended for acquisition is given separately at Appendix I.A.

2.4 Le fonds ancien, 1690-1855

For 'le fonds ancien', there exists two published reference works:

1. Gaudart E., Catalogue des manuscripts des anciennes archives de l'Inde française', 8 volumes, published at Pondicherry, 1926 and 1936.

2. Martineau, A., Inventaire des anciennes archives de l'Inde française', published at Pondicherry, 1914.

This 'fond' comprises 108 registers of the French East India Company (1701-1825) and 6,868 files of 'Inde Française', (1690-1855), known as 'feuilles volantes', and a few files relating to the French 'loges' in Cassimbazar, Dacca, Jougdia, Patna, Surat, Mahe, Calicut, Balassore and Masulipattam. This is an important series of records of the earlier period which include correspondence, proceedings of the Company's Council, different acts, and registers of the liquidation of the Company. This body of material also contains maps of 1782 military operations and charts and plans (1 bundle). The entire series is recommended for acquisition. It should be noted that the major portion of this series, except the files concerning the minor settlements (viz., 'dossiers concernant les loges'), has already been microfilmed, and acquisition of copies of these microfilms would be easier and financially more feasible.

2.5 'Le fonds moderne', 1821-1954

This group consists of registers of 'correspondence' (including confidential letters and telegrams) of the French settlements at Pondicherry and Karikal. There is no published catalogue or summary inventory for this series. There are about 132 registers, which include letters of the administrators, confidential notes, correspondence of the governor with the administrators and with the director of the interior administration, etc. Apart from these registers, there are about 44 bundles of miscellaneous, political and administrative documents (1938-1954), the major part of which is not accessible for research. There is correspondence in some of the bundles (e.g., miscellaneous and routine information on French military personnel) which do not merit microfilming. Similarly, there are a few reports and agreements, viz., copies of the postal agreement between the governor of India and the governor of the French settlements in India for the years 1931, 1936 and 1941, which are most likely to be available among the records of the National Archives of India. However, the amount of such duplicate material is meagre compared to the large amount of important material found in this series. The confidential and secret letters, various reports of the governors, administrators, and police, cover political issues, general affairs, commerce, industries, strikes, political activities of Shri Subbayya etc. All those registers and bundles which are open for research from this series are recommended for acquisition.

2.6 There is yet another group of records (about 27 bundles) for the period 1948-1954, retrieved from Pondicherry ('archives rapatriées à Pondichéry') mainly dealing with administrative and political issues. These are not open for consultation and there is no reference to them in any of the recently published guides. A list of these documents is given at Appendix I-A (II-D) of the 'fonds moderne'.

2.7 'Le fonds des papiers publics'

This fond is composed of notary and judicial archives, which include papers of the 'Superior Council of Pondicherry' and files of Criminal Proceedings.

(i) 'Archives notariales'

The notary archives of Pondicherry, Mahe and Chandernagore cover the eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries. Some of them are in volumes and others in bundles. There are a few gaps in the series.

'Notariat de Pondichéry'

80 volumes, 1699-1754 (year 1750 missing)

109 bundles, 1755-1835

One register of inheritance, 1786-1827

'Notariat de Chandernagor'

107 volumes, 1701-1819 (years 1730-1731, 1741, 1757-1760 and 1773 missing)

One register of inheritance, and estate in abeyance, 1794-1807.

'Notariat de Mahe'

5 bundles, 1791-1816.

(ii) 'Greffe du Conseil Superieur de Pondichéry'

The archives of the 'Greffe du Conseil Supérieur de Pondichéry' are very brittle and fragile and as such these are not open for consultation. The bundles consist of files of inheritance and 'estates in abeyance', and miscellaneous affairs covering the period 1733-1814 and 1832-1835. The six registers concern: Registration of 'dépôts' (1773-1774), Protocole of 'Court Papers' (1768-1838) (2 registers), Registration of sale deeds (1786-1798), Court registers (1758-1815), Inventory of Civil Courts, 'dépôts' and other papers (1779-1786).

(iii) 'Procès Criminels'

There are 252 dossiers of 'Criminal proceedings' covering the period 1705 to 1815. A few of the documents are on palm leaves in Malayalam. As this series is also in a bad state of preservation consultation of these documents are not permitted.

The last two series indicated above, i.e., 'Greffe du Conseil Supérieur de Pondichery' and 'Procès Criminels' of the 'Fonds dépôt des Papiers Publics', have already been microfilmed, but a few of these rolls are not fully legible. All the legible microfilm copies of these two series should be acquired in the first instance. The rest of the documents may be acquired in microform after restoration work is completed. This series also forms part of the archives removed from Pondicherry.

2.8 Archives Nationales, Paris

The archival source materials housed in the National Archives of France at 60, rue des Francs-Bourgeois and Section 'outre-mer' at 27, rue Oudinot, Paris are equally important for the study of the history of the French settlements in India. The minutes of letters and instructions addressed by the King and the Secretary of state to governors, administrators and other officers in the French settlements in India are classified under Colonies Series - B, 'Correspondence au départ'. (Issue), and the correspondence relating to the French East India Companies received are grouped in Series - C^2 - 'Correspondence à l'arrivée' (Receipt). There are two different types of documents in these series--one relating to the first two French East India Companies from their beginnings until the dissolution of these companies in 1769. They also contain certain documents concerning the third company established in 1785 by Calone. The second category of documents in these series consists of correspondences addressed to the minister by the administrators of the French establishments in India. The list of documents selected from these two series is at Appendix I-B.

2.9 'Section outre-mer', Archives Nationales

Mlle M.A. Menier, Conservateur-en-chef of the Section 'outre-mer' explained the various collections of records relating to French colonies housed there. Apart from the general guide to the Archives of France, manuscript inventories, indexes and lists were very kindly provided for consultation. Important archival documents relating to the French settlements in India are available in the following series housed in the Section 'outre-mer' of the National Archives of France, at 27, rue Oudinot, Paris:

'Dépôt des Papiers Publics des Colonies'
'Dépôt des Fortifications des Colonies'
'Série Géographique et Politique'.

2.10 'Dépôt des Papiers Publics'

This series comprises registers of 'Etat Civil'; Census, Judicial and Notary records.

(i) Etat Civil

The 'état-civil' registers kept in this series contain registration of births, baptisms, marriages, deaths, etc. This information mainly concerns the White population and is useful for genealogical studies. The National Archives of India, Pondicherry, has in its custody 356 'état civil' registers for the period 1676-1885. It is, therefore recommended that only those volumes which are not available in Pondicherry should be acquired from this collection to fill the gaps. The details of the 67 volumes housed in the Section 'outre-mer' are given separately in Appendix I-C. The archives also include a few registers relating to the hospitals of Pondicherry, 1748-1792, (G'428-34); Bandipaleon (1782); Chandernagore (1751) and Mahe (1778), which may also be acquired.

(ii) 'Recensements' (Inde)

The census returns of Chandernagor (1751-1768), Mahe (1753-1754) and Ramataly (1754) are available in fols. 1, 3, 6, 9, 13, 45, 85, 90, 100 and 103 of the G'-481 series of records. As these contain useful information on the composition of families, economic resources, culture, etc., microfilm copies should be acquired.

(iii) 'Greffes'[1]

These are judicial records, and comprise 'Court Public Acts', judgements (both civil and criminal) of various Courts of the French establishments in India. This series also includes decrees/orders of the 'Conseil Supérieur' of Pondicherry. There are 158 volumes covering the period from 1729 to 1910.

(iv) Notariat

The notary records housed in the Section 'outre-mer' relate to Bahour, Chandernagore, Grand Aldee, Karikal, Mahe, Nedumancad, Oulgaret, Pondicherry, Villenour and Yanam. Some of these volumes are also available in 'Dépôt des Archives d'outre-mer'' at Aix-en-Provence. Only those volumes[2] which are not available in Aix should be microfilmed in Paris. This series of records are not available in the National Archives of India, Pondicherry. The details of the 'Dépôt des Papiers Publics' suggested for acquisition are at Appendix I.C(1).

2.11 'Dépôt des Fortifications des Colonies'[3]

Various maps, plans and memoirs relating to French establishments in India are included in this group of documents. From 1815 onwards, the documents have a military character. There are 123 items exclusively relating to Mahe, Karikal, Chandernagore and Yanam (1722-1852), and 717 items concerning Pondicherry. Apart from these, there are a significant number of memoires on the French East India Company and maps and plans in the 'indes orientales' collection (1664-1840). The memoires

1. The organization of justice in the French establishment in India was regulated by an ordinance dated 7 February 1842, subsequently modified by the decrees of 31 May 1873, 11 January and 4 February 1881, 28 July 1887 and 19 April 1895.
2. Notary records of Chandernagore for the period 1701-1815, Pondicherry 1699-1754 and Mahe 1791-1816 are available in Aix-en-Provence.
3. This fonds is formed of documents of the archives of the Marine and Colony and the archives of the 'Local Fortification'.

cover a wide range of subjects including commerce, transportation, revenue and military events from the late seventeenth century to the middle of the nineteenth century. Few of the items selected may be acquired on microfilm. (Appendix I-C(2)). The maps, plans and charts pertaining to French settlements in India are of interest. The period ranges from the late seventeenth to the early twentieth century. The maps and charts kept in the National Archives of India, Pondicherry also cover more or less the same period, and therefore obtaining photocopies of these maps in Paris may be accorded a low priority.

2.12 'Série Géographique'

There are several important documents in the series 'Géographique Inde Française' housed in the Section 'outre-mer' of the National Archives in Paris. There are about 232 cartons (Nos. 324-555[2]) and 88 registers in this series. The subjects in these documents cover general affairs of the administration of the French establishments in India, relations with the English, finance, military affairs, population, justice, religion, education, health, public works, agriculture, industries and commerce. The registers mainly contain the Minutes/Proceedings of the various Councils. The documents kept in the cartons are loose sheets arranged in chronological order within folders. As there are several documents in this series on varying subjects, judicious selection of the material may require many months. A list of the subject discussed with inclusive years is given at Appendix I-C(3)

2.13 'Série des affaires politiques'

This series not only contains files on political matters but also files on other subjects. These files are found in a variety of cartons. A subject-card catalogue of the contents of the files in the 'série géographique et affaires politiques' is currently being prepared in the section 'outre-mer' of the 'Archives Nationales'. A random selection of the files made from the catalogue is appended to this report. It could be seen that the subjects dealt with in these files are very important and acquisition of material from this series would be highly useful. However, before acquiring this series, it may be desirable to obtain microfilm copies of the card-catalogue of the fonds 'géographique et affaires politiques' to facilitate final selection.

2.14 'Des Archives du Département des affaires étrangères

Other material that relates to the history of India surveyed in the National Archives and the Archives of the Ministry of External Affairs at Quai d'Orsay, Paris, include files on the 'Indian revolutionaries' and memoires. Microfilm copies of the selected items as given in Appendix I-D should be acquired. The material selected if acquired, would fill not only lacunae in the holdings of the National Archives of India, Pondicherry, but would also foster historical research on the Indo-French relations in the country.

The total quantity of material that relates to the history of India identified by the reporter comes to approximately 700 volumes, 375 bundles and cartons, and 7,130 files. The cost of acquiring copies of this material would total approximately 575,700 francs, and necessary funds will have to be found over a number of years. It is, therefore, recommended that some financial assistance be requested of Unesco under its Participation Programme. A number of series housed in the 'Dépôt des Archives d'outre-mer' are very brittle and fragile. The archives authorities in France should be approached about the possibility of undertaking preservation work on these documents on a priority basis, so that microfilm copies may be created and procured at the earliest possible date.

3. UNITED KINGDOM

3.1 India Office Library and Records, London

The survey of archival material in the United Kingdom was mainly limited to the India Office Library and Records (IOLR) London. The IOLR has records relating to India from about 1616 which include the archives of the East India Company and India Office, ranging from 'artificial' groups like factory records, to long series of departmental records, and copies of proceedings of the various administrations in India. The types of material in the official records may be broadly divided into three categories. The first group consists of the administrative records which accumulated in London, including correspondence with government departments, minutes, drafts, and copies of dispatches to India and the letters received from India. Secondly, there are records of the Government of India and provincial governments, copies of which were sent to London at regular intervals for information. These records consist of the correspondence between the government concerned and its own local officials, minutes, and resolutions; initially these were known as 'Consultations' and later as 'Proceedings'. The third category consists of records removed immediately before or after the independence through official channels, which include Crown Representative Records (1880-1947), Residency Records (1800-1947), other records of the Central and Provincial Governments (1899-1948), British High Commission: Cemetery Reports (1850-1967), etc.

3.2 In addition to these major types of records, there are three other series of source material that relate to the history of India, the Home Miscellaneous[1] series, an artificial series compiled in the India Office in the late nineteenth century, containing miscellaneous papers of the East India Company, the Board of Control and the India Office, dating from the early seventeenth century to the mid-nineteenth century.

3.3 The second major series is the collection of official publications (I.O.R.:V) consisting of about 70,000 volumes. The material ranges from British Parliamentary documents (debates and Parliamentary Papers) to Indian Acts and Codes, and includes proceedings of legislative bodies, administration reports of British India and the trade and navigation statements. The third series is the collection of 30,000 maps and charts. The variety of materials, and the large number of series involved, make it difficult to select. Moreover, the work of compiling modern finding aids to the records in the IOLR is still in process.

3.4 It should be noted that during 1976-1977 the Government of India deputed two officers to the IOLR for several months to identify records to fill the annual gaps in the main series of records in the National Archives of India, and to acquire microfilms of such records of Indian interest (new collections) not available in the National Archives of India. A summary list of the records then identified is given at Appendix II-A.

3.5 This reporter selected and listed the following series of records which were earlier identified (Details at Appendix II-A(1)): 1. Private office papers. (2) R-2 Series - Residency Records, (3) R-3 Series - Records of Central and Provincial Governments, and (4) Records of Commissions and Committees of Inquiry.

3.6 Apart from the official archives and artificial collections, the IOLR has a very good collection of Private Papers[2] of various personalities who were directly or indirectly involved in Indian affairs. These collections provide important new information on all areas, sometimes confirming materials in the official files, and in other cases covering topics which are inadequately recorded or else ignored by officials. As these could be an additional source material for the study of the history of India, acquisition of this material is strongly recommended. A list of the relevant Private Papers collections is at Appendix II-A(ii).

1. This series, the copyright of which was with the U.M.I., was purchased by the National Archives of India in 1981.
2. The National Archives of India has acquired part of these collections.

3.7 Finally, there are a certain number of publications in various Indian languages proscribed by the British Government in India during the national movement. Some of these publications are also available in the British Library, situated at Store Street, London. The new catalogue cards of the proscribed publications prepared by the British Library were scrutinized for the purpose of locating items which are available neither in the National Archives of India nor in the India Office Library and Records. To fill gaps in the National Archives of India collection of these publications, acquisition of microfilm copies is recommended of the proscribed publications given in Appendix II-B.

3.8 The volume of records identified in this survey and recommended for microfilming for the National Archives of India totals approximately 11,500 volumes (or 5,750,000 pages, or 2,875,000 exposures). Acquisition of microfilm copies has already begun with the signing of a bilateral agreement in 1975 between the National Archives of India and the India Office Library and Records. At the present rate of microfilming, it may take more than 140 years for the India Office Library and Records to fulfil the requirements of the National Archives of India. To this may be added the requirements of copies of Private Papers collection as well as the proscribed publications. The pace of acquisition of microfilm copies of the material from the India Office Library and Records, London, needs to be accelerated with a view to complete and complement the records in the National Archives of India, as well as to meet the current demands of the research community. It is, therefore, recommended that suitable projects be proposed for financial assistance, including assistance under the Participation Programme of Unesco.

4. SUMMARY OF RECOMMENDATIONS

4.1 Priority should be given to acquiring microfilm copies of archival material relating to the French Settlements in India housed in the 'Dépôt des Archives d'Outre-Mer', Chemin du Moulin due Testas, les Fenouillères, 13100 Aix-en-Provence. These archives were removed from Pondicherry in 1954.

4.2 French authorities should be requested to undertake restoration work on the brittle and fragile documents among the 'fonds ancien' and those found in the 'Fonds Papiers Publics' on a priority basis, so that copies of these fonds can be acquired as early as possible.

4.3 Efforts should also be made to acquire copies of all 'closed' records relating to 'French India' available in Aix-en-Provence.

4.4 It is also recommended that microfilm copies be acquired of materials of Indian interest available in the National Archives of France, 60 rue des Francs Bourgeois, Paris, and the Section 'Outre-Mer of Archives Nationales', 27 rue Oudinot, Paris. These are equally important to complete and complement the 'French records' housed in the National Archives of India, Pondicherry, as well as to meet the demands of the research community. In this connection priority should be accorded to those collections which have already been microfilmed (Série B and Série C^2).

4.5 Because of the cost of the acquisition of microfilm copies from the various repositories in France, it is recommended that funds be requested from Unesco under its participation programme, as well as from other sources.

4.6 In view of the magnitude of work involved in acquiring microfilm copies of records from the India Office Library and Records, London, it is strongly recommended that urgent steps need to be taken for accelerating the pace of microfilming.
